Wiltz: Having a seat at the table

Milestones Director Jim Wiltz has been an advocate at the state and national level for people with intellectual and developmental disabilities and co-occurring mental health condition, referred to as “Dual Diagnosis,” among the underserved population.

In December, Wiltz also took part in a dual-diagnosis summit in Washington, DC, to discuss these issues and help plan for the future. The summit was co-sponsored by NADD, the National Association on Dual Diagnosis, and NAMI (the National Association on Mental Illness), as well as national leaders from the Arc, several MCOs, and associations that represent state-level for people with disabilities. This all-day summit gave clinicians to provide these needed services. This all-day summit gave clinicians an opportunity to share their knowledge and to develop new strategies to address the unique needs of people with dual diagnoses. "That's why it is important for stakeholders to have a seat at the table," Wiltz said.

Wiltz: Having a seat at the table

Milestones Director Jim Wiltz has been an advocate for individuals with intellectual disability and co-occurring mental health conditions for many years. His work has been pivotal in ensuring that individuals with dual diagnoses have access to quality care and support services. Wiltz has been involved in several initiatives that aim to improve the lives of individuals with dual diagnoses, including the development of the Milestones Clinic's Behavior Support Program.

Promotions, new BCs expand Behavior Support Services

Related to Julie Miller’s new role as director of the Support Group Living (SGL) program at Stone Belt’s Bloomington, IN Center, one of the most significant developments in recent years has been the expansion of Behavior Support Services. This expansion has been made possible through the hiring of fitness specialist Ann Brzuzy to work with community members. Brzuzy will be responsible for helping individuals with disabilities increase their overall physical fitness.

The hiring of Brzuzy is part of a larger strategy to expand the scope of Behavior Support Services. This strategy includes the expansion of the Milestones Clinic’s Behavior Support Program, which has doubled in the past two years, and the hiring of staff to support those classes and routines. The expansion of Behavior Support Services is part of a larger strategy to improve the overall health and well-being of individuals with disabilities.

 Miller steps up as new SGL director

Julie Miller has been a valuable member of the Milestones team for over 10 years. Her experience and expertise have been instrumental in the success of the Behavior Support Program. In her new role as director of the Support Group Living (SGL) program, Miller will be responsible for overseeing the program's operations and ensuring that it continues to meet the needs of clients.

Miller began her career at Milestones as a referred behavior clinician (BC), having worked for over 10 years. She has since held numerous leadership roles in both the SGL and Milestones programs. Miller is a leader and the most tenured staff member of the Behavior Support Program.

Miller described her role as director of the SGL program as having a significant impact on the lives of individuals with disabilities. She is committed to ensuring that the program continues to provide high-quality services to clients and that it remains a valuable resource for those in need.

Miller's recent contributions to Milestones include ensuring leadership roles in both the SGL program and related outcomes programs. The program’s potential for increasing quality of life and reducing barriers to healthy living is critical.

The Upstart program, a project partnering with the YMCA, allows individuals with disabilities to participate in fitness classes and using the amazing YMCA facilities. This program has been instrumental in helping individuals with disabilities increase their overall physical fitness.

Preface: Target sports support, vital clients

A crucial support system for people with disabilities was recently formed by Stone Belt and community leaders. This initiative underscores the strong community support that exists around the idea of providing meaningful opportunities for persons with disabilities.

A key component of this program is to provide sports opportunities for clients who may have a physical or developmental disability. Clients will work with a counselor to develop a personalized support plan that meets their specific needs.

The program is open to all clients of Stone Belt, regardless of their age or gender. It is designed to help clients reach their full potential by actively engaging in physical activity and sports.

In addition to providing opportunities for physical activity, the program also fosters a sense of community and inclusion. Participants will work with other individuals who share similar experiences, promoting a sense of belonging and support.

The program is supported by a dedicated team of volunteers, including coaches, mentors, and supportive peers. These volunteers play a crucial role in providing guidance and encouragement to clients.

Overall, this initiative highlights the importance of providing meaningful opportunities for people with disabilities and promotes a culture of inclusion and support within the community.

COLUMN 1:

Clients give back through STEP

Stone Belt is committed to supporting the individuals we serve. To achieve this, we encourage our clients to give back to our organization through our Success Through Employment Program (STEP).

Through this program, clients are given the opportunity to develop valuable life skills, such as work experience, communication, and social interaction, while contributing to the community.

Some clients have become active in their local faith communities, sharing the success of the program with others. This is a testament to the positive impact that the program has had on the clients and the community.
